DETERMINING TYPE OF ROAD SURFACE

Consider Traffic Density and Relation
Of Street to Other Projects in State

Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Ky., Dec. 29.—Traffic density, the project's relation to other projects in the state and to through primary highways in comparison to secondary or local roads are three determining factors in the selection of a road surface, according to engineers in the state highway department and its members of the state highway commission in selecting finally the type of surface to be built on any project. The Madison assistant engineer in the department, today declared.

Now and again the question is asked by some visitor at the office of the department: How is the type of surfacing determined for any particular road? he said.

The most important and first consideration is that of traffic density—a term that includes the idea of number, speed and weight of vehicles passing over the road. This is not determined altogether from present traffic counts, but also based upon the predicted traffic density that may be expected after the project is completed. In making the future traffic density not only the project itself must be considered but its relation to other projects in the state, and to through or primary highways in comparison with secondary or local roads.

Another element entering into the question of deciding on the type of surfacing is a provision of the road law requiring that each project shall be advertised for three types of surfacing, Mr. Madison said.

In carrying out this provision particularly on federal aid roads, each of the three types is made comparable with the others, that is, each is designated that it will carry the traffic equally well as the others, he explained. Who bids have been received on the three comparable types it is customary for the state highway commission to let the contract to the lowest and best bidder.

This provision of the law doubtless was made with the idea of securing more competition in bidding, and to prevent the use of one kind of surfacing, he said.

The outstanding determining factor is that of volume of traffic, he said, and quality of service to traffic, so that first cost is not always a guide in determining what should be built, but rather an economic consideration of the whole process of construction and maintaining for a period of years equal to the probable life of the road.

The capacity of a road that permits only two lines of vehicles one in each direction, depends upon the uniform rate of speed maintained by the vehicles, he concluded. Anything that interferes with that speed immediately decreases the capacity of the road and results in confusion.

'BABE' RUTH IN TOWN
BUT NOT THE ONE WHO HITS THOSE 'HOMERS'

Babe Ruth New York

This entry on the Cumberland hotel register yesterday afternoon created no little excitement among the men of the place. From bell hop to dishwasher guests the matter became a theme of conversation. One man who had actually talked to the new guest stated that it actually was the unknown ball player and that the latter was on his way to Wilkins, to inspect the hotel properties.

True the handsome stranger appeared to be somewhat larger in build than the famous batter and a little taller, but this may have been due to the business suit and a heavy overcoat.

It was Babe Ruth all right, and he was something of a ball player but he has no claim to national prestige in this line. He is a relative of the hero of the diamond and represents a nationally known music company. His name being Ruth he is called Babe on account of his slight resemblance to the more famous relative.

PREVENT FURTHER DAMAGE TO STREET

Officer at Each End of New Avenue to Keep Horses and Heavy Vehicles Off

Renewed precautions are being taken today to prevent further damage on the new first and pike, Chief H. H. Hall detailed a man at each end of the improved section this morning, to keep horses wagons and large animals away from being prepared to place at these points.

For the first few days the street was guarded to prevent its use by automobiles. Later these precautions were abandoned and at about this time rain weather set in. Horses and wagons began going over the new completed blocks wearing out the asphalt in places.

Every effort will be made by the city to prevent further damage to the street. The public is greatly aided in the work by observing the restrictions which have been put on the use of the street.

RESUME WORK OF BUILDING STREETS

Elizabeth and Intersection Near Columbus—Block Under Railroad
Bridge Remains

The Hummel construction company has resumed work on Elizabeth avenue and at the Cumberland and intersection since the holidays and is making rapid progress.

The large culvert under the street at the intersection has been finished and a deep ditch for the placing of a sewer from Elizabeth avenue eastward to the north end of the Rembaum culvert is finished.

Work of clearing away the obstructions at the intersection will be done soon and asphalt will be spread along Elizabeth avenue. This will complete the major part of the first and work leaving only the short block under the railroad bridge to be improved and the concrete bridge on East Cumberland to be constructed.

NORTH CAROLINIANS TELL OF KENTUCKY COOPERATION IN ROAD WORK

The following is taken from an article by Perry Methen in the first number of Division, a tourist magazine of the south which enjoys a wide circulation.

Awakened to the fact that millions of dollars have been expended in other sections because of a few weak spots in the highway system between Cincinnati and Asheville the residents of the Kentucky towns where the road places exist have placed thousands of dollars to improve conditions in their respective sections and provide well conditioned roads. The entire length of the Route 1 Highway.

Business men of Middlebury, Elizabethtown and Pineville, London and Corbin have recently held enthusiastic meetings and have in fact organized a plan for an effective program which will insure the completion of the impassable places in their portion of the highway.

Thirty trucks and many teams have been donated for use in the work by residents of Corbin, Woodbine, Elizabethtown, and citizens living along the route are giving a great deal of their time to hauling lumber, shade and stone to be used in making necessary road repairs.

Well kept the fourteen miles of road between Corbin and Elizabethtown in good repair for through and local travel this winter and next spring was the unanimous declaration of the progressive citizens of Kentucky when the full value of the north and south tourist travel to their section was explained in detail by representatives of the Asheville-Western North Carolina Motor Club.

A. Buckner, managing secretary of the Asheville-Western North Carolina Motor Club in a statement to residents of the various Kentucky towns visited said, "We know that if maintenance is provided on this fourteen mile section between Corbin and Elizabethtown and on the eight mile section between New...

Congressman in Confidential Meeting
With Local Men on Matter
Yesterday

Congressman J. M. Robison was in Middlesboro yesterday afternoon and evening, in the interest of the proposed Lincoln national park, and he met with C. A. Blackburn, president of the Kiwanis club and a committee called together by Mr. Blackburn. Congressman Robison reported that he had again introduced the bill in congress for the creation of a park at this point, and he stated that the officials in Washington are looking with great favor upon the project. Plans were discussed toward securing the necessary acreage for the park. Confidential reports were made and it was found that one of the big necessities now is the formation of a definite organization to devote its entire activities to the park project. Further announcement of these plans will be made later.

SHIELDS TO WORK FOR SMOKIES' PARK

Will Use Influence in Congress to Have Site in This Section
As National Forest

KNOXVILLE, Dec. 28.—A national park in the Smoky mountains by way of the national forest and game preserve provision of the Weeks bill is the most sure and practicable way to have this area taken over by the government in the opinion of Senator John H. Shields, who pledged his support to officials of the Smoky Mountain Conservation association in their efforts to create a national park.

There is no chance of getting a special bill passed making a national park in this area at the present time but it is possible that under the Weeks bill the area may be purchased as a national forest preserve. This, according to Senator Shields, would amount to practically the same thing as a national park and would probably lead to the establishment of a park at a later date.

Under a bill which Senator Shields introduced in congress two years ago and which he reintroduced soon after the opening of the present congress, an appropriation of $5,000,000 is asked for the acquisition of forest areas in the Appalachians, under the provisions of the Weeks forestry bill. He assured officials of the park association that he will push the bill as soon as congress convenes after the holiday recess, and work with them in every way possible to bring about the establishment of the proposed park in the Smokies.

The bill was introduced by Senator Shields, while calling for the establishment of a forest preserve, would provide for roads, fish and game preserves would have practically all features belonging to a national park.

The important matter, Senator Shields said, is to get hold of the land owners in the areas most suited to a forest and game preserve and ascertain whether or not they will turn the property over to the government at a reasonable price. If the property can be purchased at a reasonable price, there should be no difficulty in having...

Cuban Rum Doctored With Croscote to

WAS SUGGLED THROUGH BY THE WAY OF FLORIDA

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 29.—Cuban rum, flavored with croscote, which federal prohibition chemists declare is a deadly poison, is to be dispensed to thirsty Louisville residents, seeking wet goods for New Year's, according to a statement by P. Green Miller, division prohibition chief for Kentucky and Tennessee, after receipt of reports from his field force. The liquor is said to bear purity labels of Cuba and Nassau and purports to be unpermeated with key and Scotch whiskeys, but in reality has been doctored and is a poison potion. Miller said poison liquor from Cuba and Nassau smuggled into the United States through Florida ports. Florida prohibition authorities notified Miller of a liquor salesman in Louisville and as a result, samples seized here reveal different varieties offered by bootleg brokers more poisonous than the usual poisonous colored moonshine.

MANY DRAWN HERE BY GOOD SCHOOLS

Become Permanent Residents Here Because of Educational Opportunities Available

Middlesboro has many inducements which weekly draw people from the surrounding country, not the least of which is its public school system. Ideal estate men say that many people who move here and become permanent residents give as one of their main reasons the advantages of the splendid school system here.

No special efforts seem to be made to boost the local educational advantages and make the most drawing card to increase the population but the people seem to know of the efficient school system without being told. Laboring men with families frequently come here on account of the schools.

Not a few of these new residents have come from Harlan county during the past year, though adjacent parts of Tennessee and Virginia have contributed to the growth of the town.

STALE CAKE

STALE cake can be used for really delicious desserts. Sponge cake, especially need never be thrown away. Dark cakes seldom dry out as quickly as light cakes, so are less of a problem.

If a light cake is really very stale it can be crumbled, coated in milk until soft and then combined with egg and jelly to make a baked pudding.

Sponge cake can be used the same way or in a "Mock Tipton pudding."

Mock Tipton Pudding

Cut sponge cake in thin slices and spread with jam or preserves. Arrange in a deep dish and pour over two cups of thin boiled custard. Let stand several hours or until the cake absorbs the custard and serve cold.

Crumbs Pudding

Two cups cake crumbs, 1 egg, milk to make moist, jelly or jam, two teaspoons sugar.

Add milk to crumbs and let stand until milk is absorbed. Add yolk of egg and beat well. Turn into a buttered dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch. Remove from oven spread with jelly and cover with the white of the egg beaten until stiff and dry with sugar. Return to oven to brown the meringue.

Cake Pudding: Cut cake in pieces for serving and pour over hot chocolate sauce. Let stand until cool enough to serve.

Chocolate Sauce

One cup sugar, 1 cup water, 4 tablespoons grated chocolate, 3-4 cup milk, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, tiny pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine sugar and water and bring to the boiling point. Melt chocolate in 1 cup of milk and add to syrup. Dissolve cornstarch in four tablespoons milk and stir into first mixture. Add salt and boil until smooth and creamy consistency. Boil constantly with a drier heater. Remove from the fire and add vanilla.

Another sauce that is excellent with stale cake is the following orange sauce:

Orange Sauce

Three-quarters cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 4 tablespoons orange juice, grated rind 1 orange, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Mix cornstarch with sugar and add boiling water slowly stirring constantly. Boil three minutes, add the grated rind and juice of orange, lemon juice and a few grains of salt and cook two minutes longer.

FIGHTING PARSON MAKES TOWN CLEAN-UP COMMUNITY AFFAIR IN LAW CRUSADE

BY COURTESY

PLANNED BY, Dec. 27, the church militant, completed in George F. Courtes, certainly in the spirit in this small town.

The town had been dispirited but helpless. A roughness of a few miles out was not to be selling, all of the town and its conditions, a really, an wholesome. A dance hall near town put on a Sunday night to those people where crowds were so large that supervision was impossible. The town quietude was being violated.

People complained, it was, but the attitude was that preachers are not fellows, harmless, they never do anything, says the Rev. Mr. Courtes, telling the story in his Methodist parsonage. They complained too, that public officials would do anything.

Last Week

In less than three weeks after that the crusade was in full swing, the quiet and law-abiding, directing the onslaught with these accomplishments to show for it.

The courthouse closed, flowing, and by preacher and deputy sheriffs upon the evidence gathered by the preachers' tales.

Pete, the roughneck, and his leader, proclaiming his intention by playing his accordion at the Sunday church service.

A series of moral suasion demonstrations in progress, and the town hall with a promise of local action if it didn't quieten.

Virtually the whole community, church and non-church, are enthusiastic and in the drive.

You want to make it clear that this isn't my campaign, and that it isn't a church or blue law movement, says the minister. It's a community affair.
